Making spaces smarter, flexible, and more collaborative

The Power of Making Things Physical

As humans, our spatial memory is superior to our short term memory. When information is posted in real space it increases our ability to remember, process, and make decisions. All facets of a business can be seen together, in context, adding speed and agility to the process as physical information is easier and faster to move, reorder, and manipulate.

Creative Hardware was born out of our modern “War Room” methodology that fosters better thinking, better team engagement, and better client buy-in. We’ve learned that a panoramic, immersive setup in which dedicated space is used to post an organized body of work is the best way to arrive at ideas, strategies, and solutions.
